DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

A lone fieldstone dairy stands along side Hopewell Road in what is now known as Greenfield Acres just east of West Nottingham. The dairy faces north with the gable running on a north/south axis.

The bi-level fieldstone structure has an overhanging gable roof to the front to protect the two doorways in the north end on each level. The heavy frames are mortised and tenoned. Small ventilators are found on each side of the structure. The stone is semi-coursed with roughly square or rectangular quoins. A spring runs through the structure and exists out of the back wall.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This structure stands by itself along the road but was probably associated with a nearby farm. It was undoubtedly located at this spot due to the fresh supply of spring water and its central location to many farms. The overhanging roof is a feature not surviving on many other dairies and worthy of note!
